

WISCONSIN

OFFICIAL SNOWMOBILE TRAIL MAP

Jim Doyle, Governor

Life's So Good

1. Please respect all public and private property; stay on marked trails and routes.
2. Use extreme caution on all lakes and streams. Self-funded and corridor trails do not cross lakes.
3. Obey all state laws and local ordinances. For a copy of the "Wisconsin Snowmobile Laws" (publication PUBL-L-201 2001 REV), write to the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707; call 608/266-2621, or visit www.dnr.state.wi.us.
4. Do not operate snowmobiles on highways and roads unless posted as a snowmobile route. Snowmobile routes on roads are designated by local ordinance.
5. All snowmobiles must have current registration, either in Wisconsin or another jurisdiction. Non-resident snowmobiles must display a current Non-Resident Trail Use Sticker to operate on Wisconsin snowmobile trails.
6. Snowmobile responsibly. Drinking alcohol before or during snowmobiling can impair judgement and slow reaction time. Alcohol and speeding have been shown to be contributing factors in most fatal snowmobile accidents.

Wisconsin's Self-Funded Trail System

The State of Wisconsin has adopted, by legislative action, a system of funding whereby snowmobilers themselves pay for the vast network of trails that criss-cross the state. Monies are generated by snowmobile registration and by state gas taxes on that portion of the fuel used by snowmobilers. This fund is administered by the Department of Natural Resources, and by cooperating counties that have adopted the program. Counties contract with individuals or organizations, usually local snowmobile clubs, to develop and maintain trails.

This map was prepared using base-map information from the Wisconsin Department of Transportation, The Association of Wisconsin Snowmobile Clubs (AWSC), county snowmobile alliances and local snowmobile clubs provided trail information. The map is to be used as a guide only. Snowmobilers using this map assume the responsibility and risk for their own safety when using the indicated trails. Every effort has been made to make this map as accurate as possible. However, trail locations may change. The cartographer, publisher and all others who provided information for this map assume no liability whatsoever for any use to which this map may be put.

- ### Protecting our winter fun
- Wisconsin's trail system relies on the cooperation of private landowners, volunteers and citizens. Without them the trails wouldn't exist. To ensure their continued support and to protect our trails, it's up to you to become a safe rider. By respecting the rights of property owners, trail groomers and local residents, safe riders become ambassadors for the sport, changing opinions about snowmobiling at the grassroots level, where they matter most.
- ### How to be a safe rider
- Don't operate a snowmobile with alcohol or drugs in your system
 - Wear appropriate clothing, helmet and goggles.
 - Ride within the limits of your capabilities and your machine's. If you are going too fast to stop quickly, you could be in for big trouble. This is particularly important at night when visibility is reduced. Another night riding tip: Don't just follow the tail lights of the snowmobiler in front of you. If he makes a mistake, you will too.
 - Keep your machine in top condition, and make sure it is not excessively loud. Regularly follow the maintenance schedule outlined in your owner's manual, or visit your local dealer.
 - Always check your sled before riding. Thirty miles into the trail is no time to discover detective plugs, belts or hoses. Bring along a flashlight, tools, and a few spare parts.
 - Ride with a group. It's more fun and safer. It's also a good idea to take compasses, cell phones, GPS units, and to make sure someone at home knows where you are riding and for how long.

Ice riding: if you don't know, don't go

Riding on ice is a dangerous proposition. If you decide to go, make sure to check the local ice conditions. Snow pack, water current and other factors can make ice conditions change rapidly. If you fall through the ice, grab the nearest edge and kick like a seal to get yourself out of the water. Then roll a good distance away before trying to walk – displacing your weight over a larger area will help you avoid another breakthrough. For frequent ice riders, buoyant snowmobile suits are a good safety precaution. Of course, the safest choice is simply to ride on land.

Safety training

Completion of a Wisconsin DNR Snowmobile Safety Education course is mandatory for any rider born after January 1, 1985. However, it is a good idea for all riders. Studies show that 80 percent of riders in fatal accidents have not had this training. Why take the chance? Snowmobile Safety Education Courses are available throughout the state. Call your local DNR service center for details.

Alcohol and snowmobiles: a deadly combination

Alcohol consumption is, by far, the largest cause of snowmobile accidents today. It causes fatigue, slows reaction time and fogs decision-making ability. And forget that myth about alcohol making you warmer – it actually does just the opposite. Like most states, Wisconsin promotes a "zero tolerance" policy toward drinking and snowmobiling. The state has stepped up its patrols, both on- and off-trail, and actively imposes fines on offenders ranging from $600 to $2,000 or more. If you have the urge to squeeze a throttle, then skip the bottle. Alcohol, drugs and snowmobiling just don't mix.

- ### Rules of the road
- All snowmobilers should know the basic rules of the road and remember to use proper hand signals.
- To signal a left turn, extend your left arm straight out.
 - For a right turn, extend your left arm out with your forearm raised at a 90-degree angle.
 - When slowing down, put your left arm out and angle it toward the ground.
 - When stopping, hold your left arm straight up.
- Speaking of roads, remember to come to a complete stop before crossing them. Then check traffic, and when none is visible, proceed across at a right angle.
